Settled the Doctor

One of the plug hatted vendors of electric belts, who did the dinkey hypnotism flim flam on the streets for the past couple of weeks, got into trouble in Wadsworth Saturday night. The tailor's dummy was playing cards with an old man and a discussion arose in which the disciple of Mesmer gave the old man a terrible drubbing. A bystander interfered and reduced the electric belt proposition to nebular vacuity.

SOME FACTS ABOUT SELF GOVERNMENT.

The contention between the two great parties has ceased to be a question of politics, as it has assumed proportions, or outlines that include a continuance of the Republic. Shall the Republic be continued is a very serious question, because it includes the future not only of free institutions in the United States, but the propagation of freedom upon earth. Self government has received an exemplification from the people of the United States in a way that the world had not received it at any time in the past

Ancient Greece, the mother of all conditions that enter modern civilization and culture, gave to the world sufficient in the science of self government to secure attention and direct the public mind of succeeding peoples and nations respecting the theory of intellectual direction of self rule in public matters, but it remained for the United States to give lessons to mankind in the science, in all of its fullness, in system and practice. When the people take the time to give to the greatest question that has been presented to the people, or to the world, the thought it should command from every citizen, will not be withheld, or will there be any doubt remaining about the meaning of the decision.

Has it occurred to our readers that they are in their character of American citizens the custodians of the most valuable right in its best sense that has been given to men, which is the right of self government under a well defined and almost perfect system. That the right is not yours to dispose of at pleasure against the principle of freedom included in the right, but are in a position before God and the world not only as custodians, but as representatives of the highest privilege bestowed upon mankind, which is the sovereign right of saying, I govern.

When you exercise the right of saying "I govern," which in effect you do each time you go to the polls and vote, or go to a political meeting and participate in its proceedings, do not stop saying "I govern," but continue to repeat it in all you do in your relation to your country as a citizen possessor of the most exalted position known to a man among men.

Should it be that the better class of our citizens would observe the rule mentioned, there would not be heard in the land from the ignorant, or from the slaves of organized capital, words blurring paper constitutions, saying they are not large enough for the United States. The ideal of government by Democrats is absolute freedom to the individual citizen in all matters pertaining to society and government, except such rights as the individual has given up for the good of the whole body of citizens, in the interest of order and good government.

Individual rights not surrendered by the citizen are retained for his individual use. The rights he gave up respecting their individual application have been returned to him under our system in their extended capacity, to embrace the general good, and have again become his to be used in their changed relation, and are as much rights for his individual use for the protection of his person and property as they were in their more simple form. The fact of retention by the individual citizen of all natural rights not given up by him for the general good is recognized in our system in the form of a constitutional provision, which will serve to illustrate what has been said, which provision is in the following language: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States or to the people."—Article X of the amendments to the constitution.

While the exercise of government rights by the States over the people is larger than the exercise of rights given to the United States to govern, the principle included in the reservation of natural rights not surrendered for the good of society and government is as active against the State as it is against the United States. Before man had surrendered any of his natural rights for the good of society and to procure for himself the protection there is in good government, he exercised the right of self government, which is a natural right given to him by his creator.

When he gave up the right of self government in his individual capacity as a natural man for the good of society and to procure a stronger government for his protection than his individual arm furnished, the right was retained and not returned. Then came the system of absolute government, which is obedience to the will of a superior and he became a slave. There has been much improvement in the old slave system as education and intelligence advanced, but its fundamental principles are largely retained in the imperial or absolute system and the superior lord or lords continue to withhold the natural right of self government which absolutely belongs to man, or to the people in society form.

A right so long retained by a superior will not be surrendered without a desperate struggle to retain it. It is the natural right to self government that is a part of the nature of man as an individual and is his natural right to use as a member of society, that is in contention between the people in Europe and the old slave or monarchial system. The right is retained by means of military power in organized form and at an immense cost to the toiling millions upon the earth. In the contention a monarch loses his life by the knife or by a gun in the hands of an assassin which is a result of a denial of a natural right that belongs to all men. The contention will become more severe as the years pass and intelligence becomes more general.

It has been repeated in the JOURNAL that the government of the United States is the grandest and most complete system of government that the world has known, which is the system that is attacked by organized capital in the form of trusts and monopolies represented by bosses and a boss system that rules President McKinley and Congress, which is an outgrowth of the times caused chiefly by the neglect of the people to exercise the right that the wisdom of the founders of the United States government preserved and secured for them. It is almost impossible to realize as a truth that an intelligent people should hesitate about their duty under these conditions, but the chief difficulty is to dispose of the cause there is for seeming disinterested zeal over the most vital question that has been presented for the action of an intelligent people.

MINES AND MINING

Items About Nevada's Leading Industry Clipped From Exchanges.

Since last report the water has fallen in the Combination shaft seven inches, and is now 127 feet 7 inches below the measuring point in that shaft.

The mining men who were visiting this camp last week took their departure, but not for good. They believe this camp to have a future, and, we are led to understand, will endeavor to make it ere long.—White Pine News.

Salmon is again taking on new life. Several of the mines are running full blast and properties that have been idle for several months will shortly resume operations. Ore is being hauled to Wells and shipped to the Selby company. The mine owners receive something over $300 from every carload shipped. Several Salt Lake mining men are inspecting the Moore and other mines this week.—Wells Herald.

Trained birds are always pleasing, but a novelty so new and interesting as Prof. M ntague introduced last evening is something out of the common groove of attractions and exceeded the elaborate description of the bills. All the children in town will be on hand at the only Cockatoo matinee.—Marysville Democrat.

Held the Flier.

It is a saying among railroad men that nothing but Uncle Collis' special can get the right of way over the limited mail. Yesterday morning, however, the flier pulled in from the desert, gray with alkali dust, and fretting at the bit. But it was compelled to curb its impatience and wait ten minutes for the eas -bound express to creep into the yards.

Had a Prior Appointment.

Two or three days ago a young fellow, who resides in this city, was arrested on a complaint charging disturbing the peace. The case was set for last evening at 6 o'clock. The prosecuting witness was on hand promptly but the person charged failed to make his appearance. This is justice as she is did at Reno.

Yesterday was steamer day. Collectors found money pretty easy.

UNFINISHED TALES.

Stories That Authors Begin and Find it Impossible to Finish.

The inability of an author to finish a piece of work that he has engaged to do and has already actually begun is not so very uncommon a thing. It is said that Dickens began "The Mystery of Edwin Drood" without any clear conception in his mind of how the story was going to turn out and that had he not died, leaving it unfinished, he would have found almost any ending difficult to reconcile with certain hints contained in the earlier chapters. We remember a rather curious instance of the same sort as having happened a good many years ago, when the elder Bonner was editing the New York Ledger.

A very impecunious literary man sent to Bonner the first chapters of a most exciting story which gave promise of being just the sort of thing which readers of The Ledger used to like. The story was accepted and ran on uninterruptedly and very successfully for about four weeks, when all of a sudden the author's invention gave out. For the life of him he could not go on with the tale, and he had to go to Mr. Bonner and say so frankly.

The next number of The Ledger appeared without the expected instalment of the story, but with a brief note to the effect that, owing to the sudden illness of its author, its further publication was temporarily suspended. This was to give that embarrassed person a chance to recover his inspiration. Mr. Bonner asked him to dinner, took him driving and in various ways tried to brace him up for further work, but it was of no use. He simply could not go on, and so the rest of the story never saw the light.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

HE GOT THE INTERVIEW.

A Story of Amos Cummings and Secretary of State Seward.

It was while Amos Cummings was the Washington correspondent of the New York Sun that he had a memorable interview with Lincoln's secretary of state, Seward. Cummings received orders one day to get certain information from Secretary Seward without fail, and accordingly he went to the secretary's office to see him. Mr Seward did not receive the newspaper man very cordially.

"I won't talk to a representative of The Sun on that subject," said the secretary. "I am very busy. You are taking up my time, young man, and I can't be bothered with you."

In an instant Cummings was boiling with anger and hurt pride. He drew himself up, looked the secretary straight in the eyes and said:

"You forget, sir, that there are three parties to this interview."

"Three?" queried Seward in surprise. "How do you make that out?"

"First, sir, there is you, secretary of state and one of the foremost figures in the world of men of the day; second, there is the correspondent of the New York Sun, who has come to you on a perfectly proper errand in the service of his newspaper, and, third, sir, there is an American citizen who considers himself the equal of any man on earth and who will not be insulted by you or any man alive!"

The great Seward looked at Cummings and smiled.

"Sit down," he said, "and tell me exactly what you want, young man."

The Sun not only got the news it wanted, but also one of the best interviews with Seward ever published.—Saturday Evening Post.

Simplicity of Fun.

"The funniest thing I ever saw or heard," says Chauncey M. Depew in Success, "was the lecture of Artemus Ward, then quite unknown, on Mormons, delivered at Albany. The audience was fashionable, conservative and proper to a degree. Ward, discouraged, finally stopped and said, after one of his best things, which had met with no response, 'There's a joke.' Suddenly, the fun of the whole entertainment came like an avalanche. The audience began to titter, then to laugh, then to roar and at the end of 15 minutes was positively in a hysterical condition. It was an illustration of the psychology of association and sentiment, precisely the same as that which produces panics, when there are no commercial troubles and no financial difficulties."

Remembered the One at Home.

A Lebanon man tells the following for a fact: One day a Linn county farmer bought a banana at his store, the first one he had ever eaten. After finishing it he threw the peel on the floor. After gazing at it a moment he picked it up and wrapped it in a piece of paper and remarked:

"Guess I'll take that home to my wife and let her see what a banana looks like. She never seed one."

And the man had an income of several thousand dollars a year.—Portland Guardsman.

An Exact Likeness

The greatest trouble most photographers experience is getting EXACT LIKENESS. Here is where modern appliances come to the rescue. The RIVERSIDE STUDIO is the most up-to-date on the Pacific Coast; the fixtures are all MODERN and none but EXPERIENCED ARTISTS are employed. You can rest assured that if your photograph work is done at the Riverside Studio it will be finished in an artistic manner.

They Located the Bullet.

An interesting and successful experiment was made Saturday night with the Wilson and Caffrey Cathode Ray machine at the University.

Mr. McDaniel of Alturas was the patient experimented upon. Some time ago he was shot in the leg. The bullet was probed for in vain. It was discovered by the electric ray to be hiding back of the tendon achilles.

Dr. A. Gibson of Alturas and Drs. Thoms and Gibson of this city will perform an operation to-day to extract the bullet.

Lots of Hop Juice.

Reno is probably the most drought to wn on the coast. Two instances may be cited:

The Monarch saloon company received fourteen carloads of beer within the past twelve months, nearly all of which was dispensed over their bar.

Two carloads of beer a week is the average now received at the Wieland Agency. A portion of this is dispensed by the glass and the balance distributed among local retailers.

NEW CAMP ORGANIZED

Woodmen of the World Institute a Lodge at Wadsworth.

Wadsworth has now a camp of Woodmen of the World. It was instituted Saturday night. Twenty-five members of Washoe camp, No. 407, went down to put the boys of Fenimore camp through the work. They did it to the queen's taste. It was an all night session. Of the twenty members eight were given the amplified work.

Some amusing incident occurred during the ceremonies. Tales should not be told out of school, especially if it be a school of instruction in a lodge room, hence we refrain from telling what was whispered us about the way plans were upset when Bob Pollock rode the billy goat.

After the installation and initiation rites everybody was entertained at a swell banquet. The Reno contingency bled themselves homeward Sunday morning with a god-speed from the Wadsworth boys.

The new camp is officered as follows: H. Jud Allen, P. C. C.; Wm. M. Pickett, C. C.; John W. Barrett, Advisory Lieutenant; J. C. Kinsey, Banker; H. J. Barclay, Clerk; B. Lattimore, Escort; A. J. Krinkle, Sentry; Dr. W. L. Kessler, Physician; W. H. Connelly, Watchman; Dr. Kessler, H. J. Allen and Thomas Compton, managers.

F. C. Pyle, the organizer of the camp, has also established one at Lovelock. This order is largely growing in Nevada, being partly the result of Mr. Pyle's ability as an organizer.

SHE SWIPED HIS COIN

Lottie Emerson, of the Slums, Is Guilty of Another Theft.

"Light Fingered Betsey" has gone wrong again. Of course, the law custom is to consider every person innocent until proven guilty, but this hag, sometimes known as Lot Emerson, has been in the toils so often that the conclusion of guilt in the case to be cited is the only natural one to arrive at.

The charge this time is that the woman robbed a man Saturday night of about $31, the third complaint of a similar nature that has been made in the past few months.

The officers waltzed her up to the Justice Court and His Honor, Justice Linn, out of the compassion of his heart for frail and erring men and women, compelled her to put up $25 bail. This, if she be guilty, will leave her just about $5 with which to hire a sbyster of a lawyer to get her out of the difficulty with one large dollar profit in the deal.

It looks to a man up a tree that election is approaching.

Will Relate His Experience.

Seats for the Honeyman benefit are going fast. Everybody will attend but not all will obtain desirable seats. Secure yours in time.

Elmer Honeyman deserves well of the citizens of Reno. He responded to his country's call at a time of need. In the swamps of Luzon he contracted the dread fever, which sapped his vitality and left him in such physical condition that it will require years of Nevada climate to put him on his feet again.

Mr. Honeyman fell into the hands of the enemy. He endured nearly a year's captivity. At the benefit entertainment he will relate his interesting experiences. Don't forget the date—Friday evening. Seats are fifty cents in all parts of the house.

Building the Line.

The line of the Truckee River General Electric company has reached the Comstock sub-station and electric machinery is being placed in the mines. At the western end of the line there are still 135 poles to be set and the wire strung for that distance. In ten or twelve days the power house near Mystic will be connected. It is not yet known the approximate date upon which the new power will be installed on the lode.

An Italian Picnic.

The annual picnic by the Italian society of Reno will be held next Sunday at Poor's grove, one and one half miles west of Reno. A good time is assured to all. The public are invited. There will be music, dancing and a general good time. Dance tickets will be $.50 for gentlemen; ladies and children free. Busses will convey passengers to and from the grounds at reasonable prices.

TOO GREAT LENIENCE

Mercy Should Be Tempered With Justice or Crooks Will Laugh at Law.

Some jaundiced people complain that the JOURNAL is injuring Reno by publishing the naughty things that happen in this burg, saying that this publicity injures the reputation of the town. They affirm that "things are not worse than they have been for the past half dozen years"

"Mebbe so, mebbe not, no quien sabe," as our friend, Piute Johnson, sagely remarks. The trouble is, we didn't know or didn't care whether we were sitting on a crater or not, and this paper feels it to be its duty to give warning.

We like Judge Linn, District Attorney Williams, all the officers and every man in town who serves on justice court juries, but we intend to jump hard on any of them who stand in the way of justice.

Now, instead of hard feelings, let's all stand in and deodorize the tenderloin.

Watch John Sunderland's advertising space. He will make an interesting announcement.

In a certain household the true and only Vermont maple sirup has never lost its sweetness, and several times a week from the head of the table paterfamilias pours out judiciously measured quantities of it on the plates of his children. To give piquancy to the ceremony he always explains that this time he is going to give Bob an ostrich and Mamie an antelope, with something else from the nursery books for Teddy. One day the latter small philosopher was seen to regard the various plates for a considerable space of time in silence. "What is it, Edward?" his mother asked.

"Nuffin," replied the hopeful. "I was just finkin that me an Bob an Mamie allus seems to get birds an snakes an fings wiv skinny legs, but pop, generally gets a el'phant or a hipperpotamus."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Wanted a Stone.

"Have I not always been generous with you in the matter of household expenses?" he demanded.

"Yes," she replied bitterly. "I asked for a stone and ye gave me bread."

Then he realized that he would have to get her the diamond she desired before there would be peace in the family.—Chicago Post.

"How did you gather such a large congregation of old and middle aged people?" asked the young minister of the old one.

"I advertised a sermon to the young," was the latter's reply.—Chicago News.
